

Contributors

Carissa Nimah is the Chief Marketing Officer for Bhutan’s Department of Tourism – responsible for the development, promotion and positioning of tourism. Prior to moving to Bhutan in 2022, Carissa was based in Asia and the UAE for 18 years working in global hospitality, PR and communications. She has a masters degree in strategic marketing.

Colonel Sisir Chhetri is the Officer on Special Duty with the De-Suung programme. He was commissioned in the Royal Bhutan Army in 2000 and joined the Royal Bhutan Police in 2005, and served in Trongsa, Bumthang, Trashigatshel, and Jigmeling. Colonel Sisir was Camp Adjutant, Police Planning Officer at the RBP headquarters before joining the De-Suung programme.

Dinh-Long is a French-born Vietnamese supporting youth to achieve greater impact for the UN’s SDGs. He is a community builder, facilitator and podcast host involved in youth empowerment and engagement, social justice and climate change. He works with young social entrepreneurs, leaders and climate advocates across the Asia-Pacific through youth projects of UNDP Asia-Pacific. He was selected as one of the UN’s 11 Climate Champions for 2022.

Dorji Dhradhul was the Director General of the Department of Tourism from 2019 till 2024. Prior to this, he was the Dzongda of Gasa Dzongkhag and held various positions within the Ministry of Agriculture. Dorji holds a bachelor’s degree in Agriculture Science and a master’s degree in Agricultural extension.

Jonathan F.P. Rose’s business, public policy, teaching, research, writing and not-for-profit work focuses on creating more environmentally, socially and economically resilient cities. Amongst other awards, Jonathan received the 2021 ULI Prize for Visionaries in Urban Development. In 2023, he received The Druk Thuksey award from His Majesty The King of Bhutan. Jonathan chairs the Board of the Bhutan Urban and Regional Planning Global Advisory Committee.

Editor

Dasho Kinley Dorji

Editorial Board

Dasho Kinley Dorji
Dr Karma Phuntsho
Siok Sian Pek-Dorji
Dr Bjorn Melgaard

Joseph E. Stiglitz is an American economist and a professor at Columbia University. He is also co-chair of the Independent Commission for the Reform of International Corporate Taxation and the Chief Economist of the Roosevelt Institute. Stiglitz was awarded the Nobel Prize in economics in 2001.

Katsu Masaki is on the faculty of Konan University, Japan. His research has focused on post-capitalist approaches to development. He is an executive committee member of the Japan-Bhutan Friendship Association and is on the editorial board of the Bhutan Journal of Management. He holds a D.Phil. from the University of Sussex, UK.

Kesang Wangmo is an adjunct lecturer at Jigme Singye Wangchuck School of Law and a full-time Senior Legal Analyst at Druk Holding & Investments. She holds a Master's Degree in Public Administrative Law and Public Policy from the University of Sydney.

Kezang Yuden is an Information & Communication Technology Officer (ICTO) from the Cloud services division managing the Government Data Centre (GDC) within the GovTech Agency.

Kunzang Wangmo is an experimenter with the UNDP innovation team. She is an expert in design thinking, foresight and development financing. She previously worked as a planning officer with the Gross National Happiness Commission Secretariat. She holds a Master's degree in Business from The Queensland University of Technology, Australia.

Namgyal T Gyaltshen is an Analyst at the Department of Innovation and Technology (InnoTech) under Druk Holding & Investments where she specialises in strategic innovation and technology planning. She graduated from Brown University in Economics and Environmental Studies (Conservation Science and Policy).

Niraj Koirala is an engineer with the Division of Telecom and Space within the GovTech Agency.

Pallavi Sharma leads Marketing and Communications for the Bhutan National Digital Identity (NDI) project led by GovTech Agency Bhutan and Druk Holdings & Investments. Before joining the Bhutan NDI project, Pallavi worked with Deloitte Consulting LLP to deliver research-based advisory services to Fortune 500 companies. She has a Master's Degree in International Relations from South Asian University.

Philip Schellekens is Chief Economist for Asia and the Pacific at the United Nations Development Programme and a non-resident fellow at the Center for Global Development. Prior to this, he worked at the World Bank and IMF and studied at the Economics Departments of MIT, Harvard, LSE, and the University of Antwerp. He holds a Ph.D. in Economics from the LSE.

Praneesha Acharya is an Assistant Information & Communication Technology Officer (Assistant ICTO) with the Digital Service Operation and Maintenance division of the Department of Digital Transformation within the GovTech Agency.

Siok Sian Pek-Dorji is the founder of, and currently adviser to the Bhuan Centre for Media and Democracy. She is an independent consultant and has been involved in media, communications and civil society related projects for media and development agencies, and the government. She is an editorial member of The Druk Journal editorial board.

Sonam Tshering Jattu works at the Druk Gyalpo's Institute in Pangbisa as the Executive Assistant to the Director. He is an alumnus of Quest University and a fellow of St. Stephens College. Sonam Jattu is a member of the National Basketball Team of Bhutan and teaches sports at The Royal Academy.

Tenzin Choden is the Chief Program Officer of the Workforce Planning and Information Division at the Department of Workforce Planning and Skills Development since 2022. She has worked with the erstwhile Ministry of Labour and Human Resources in the field of human resource development till 2022. She has an MSc. in Public Policy and Human Development from Maastricht University.

The Royal Civil Service Commission was established in 1982 by His Majesty the Fourth Druk Gyalpo through a Royal Charter. It has the mandate of being the Central Personnel Agency of the Royal Government of Bhutan.

Tshering Nidup works at the Druk Gyalpo's Institute in Pangbisa as the Programme Lead for the Bhutan Baccalaureate Transition Programme. He is an alumnus of the University of New England in Australia and a fellow of St. Stephens College. Tshering teaches Life Science at The Royal Academy.

Tshering Lhamo is an Economist at the United Nations Development Programme in Indonesia. She has extensive experience working with the Government and Public Sector, International Financial Institutions, and United Nations Systems in the fields of inclusive economic development policy, sustainable development, strategic planning, and partnerships & engagement.

Tshering Pema is an Assistant Information and Communication Technology Officer (Assistant ICTO) with the Digital Service Transformation division of GovTech agency.

Tshoki Zangmo works as a Senior Research and Policy Analyst at the Oxford Poverty and Human Development Initiative, University of Oxford, United Kingdom. Previously, she served as the Head of Exploration at the Innovation Unit in the UNDP Bhutan Country Office.

Ujjwal Deep Dahal is the Chief Executive Officer of the Druk Holding and Investments (DHI). He is a Fulbright Humphrey fellow from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), Cambridge. He has a MSc degree from Canada's University of New Brunswick, a Bachelor of Engineering from PSG College of Technology (India), an MBA from the Quantic School of Business (Online).

Yedzin W Tobgay is a PhD candidate at the University of Melbourne's School of Social and Political Sciences. Yedzin previously worked with multiple Bhutanese government institutions and agencies in varying capacities as a gender/social consultant. She also served as the youngest faculty member of the Royal Thimphu College, Bhutan's first private tertiary institute.